THE MISSOURI HARMONY.

"The Rutledge family was serious, pious, though they lived in a tavern, where travelers and strangers ate and talked around a big table, and gathered afterward around the big fireplace with talk not always serious nor pious. *****

They sang from a book, "The Missouri Harmony," printed and published by Morgan and Sanxay in Cincinnati. It was "a collection of psalm and hymn tunes, and anthems, from eminent authors: with an introduction to the grounds and rudiments of music," and a suppliant of "admired tunes and choice pieces of sacred music." *****

And though Abraham Lincoln had found it easy to master Kirkham's Grammar, saying it was not much of a science, and he would like to tackle another one as easy, he made no comment about having mastered "The Missouri Harmony Songbook." Many a line in it, as he held it in his hands at the Rutledge place, had more than a casual reading, lines singing of world illusions, of the dissolving of strong frameworks, of proud men to be "light as a puff of empty air," of the "dear sovereign whirl of seasons," the melting phantasmagoria of the years. Of these he was kith and kin."

See Sandburg's The Prairie Years, pages 131-134 for a four-page review of The Missouri Harmony. See also Lamon's Lincoln, page 142, and Barton's Lincoln, vol. 1, page 196.

The Missouri Harmony Song Book

The Missouri Harmony song book was the most pretentious musical publication in circulation in rural Illinois, while Lincoln was a resident of New Salem. It contained "a choice collection of Psalms Tunes, Hymns and Anthems." It is recorded that Lincoln, who was not musical, now and then essayed a song out of this book. However, the only song mentioned in connection with Lincoln's use is a mournful drinking song called "Legacy" on which Lincoln is said to have made a rather course parody.

The Missouri Harmony was first published in Cincinnati in 1827. The first edition does not contain the song "Legacy." This edition bears the date 1834.

PREFACE.

THE object of this selection is to supply the churches with a competent number of slow and solemn tunes, in unison with the spirit and design of worship. That such a compilation was needed, no person of piety and taste, who has been acquainted with the selections in common use, will deny.

As the great author of our existence has been pleased to favor the human family with devotional exercises, so delightful and becoming, it seems reasonable that they should be encouraged and supported throughout all our divine assemblies. In former times, and under the Jewish dispensation, those expressions of homage were directed by the holy spirit of God, as peculiarly becoming the place where his honor dwelleth. Nay, they seem even to have called on their fellow worshippers to join in this important duty:—O sing unto the Lord a new song—sing unto the Lord all the earth—it is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O thou most high.” How astonishing to behold! people who have daily opportunities of opening the sacred volume and contemplating the delightful raptures of the worshippers of old, come into the house of God, and sit, either with their mouths shut, or grinning at some vain and idle speculation, while the devout worshippers are singing the praises of their Redeemer. It was the remark of an eminent writer, too applicable to the present day, that “the worship in which we could most resemble the inhabitants of heaven, is the worst performed upon earth.” There appears too much truth in this observation; too often does a disgraceful silence prevail in our churches; too often are dissonants and discord substituted for the charms of melody and harmony. True it is, that there are individuals among us, that providence has not blest with singing faculties; but will not truth oblige the most of us to confess, that the fault rests not in the want of natural abilities, but in a great carelessness and neglect of our own?

This book will be offered to the public in three parts—the first containing all the church music now in use; the second, the more lengthy and elegant pieces, commonly used in concert or singing societies; and lastly the Anthems. Teachers would do well to begin with the first tune in the book, and pursue them regularly as inserted.

None but those who have made the attempt, know how difficult it is to satisfy all. The compiler has had a higher aim; an effort to benefit the church and discharge his duty. He now leaves the work with the serious and candid, and humbly dedicates it to the service of Him

“Whose eye is on the heart;

“Whose frown can disappoint the proudest strain;

“Whose approbation prosper even mine.”

The foregoing scale comprises three octaves or 22 sounds. The F cliff  used on the fourth line in the Bass, shows that that line is the 7th sound in the general scale.

The G cliff  used on the second line in the tenor and treble, shows that that line, in the tenor, is the 8th sound in the general scale, and in the treble (when performed by a female voice) the 15th sound; for if the treble, as well as the tenor, were performed entirely by men, the general scale would comprise only 15 sounds: hence the treble stave is only raised an octave above that of tenor, in consequence that female voices are naturally an octave above men's, and to females the treble is usually assigned. The stars (*) show the natural places of the semitones.

When the C cliff  is used, (though it has now become very common to write counter on either the G or F cliffs) the middle line in the counter is in unison with the third space in tenor, (C) and a seventh above the middle line in the bass &c.

Three octaves being more than any common voice can perform, the bass is assigned to the gravest of men's voices—The tenor to the highest of men's, and the treble to the female voices; the counter (when used) to boys and the gravest of the female voices.

Two sounds equally high, or equally low, however unequal in their force, are said to be in unison, one with the other. Consequently E on the lower line in the treble stave, is in unison with E on the fourth space in the tenor; and E on the third space in bass, is in unison with E on the first line of the tenor, and an octave below E the lower line in the treble. See the General Scale. From any one letter in the General scale, to another of the same name, the interval is an octave—as from B to B, D to D, &c.

Agreeably to the F and G cliffs used in the General Scale, a note on any line or space in the bass, is a sixth below a note on a corresponding line or space in the tenor, and a 13th below a note in the treble occupying the same line or space, (when the treble is performed by females.) See the General Scale. Suppose we place a note on D, middle line of the bass, another on B, the middle line of the tenor or treble, the interval will appear as just stated; and to find any other interval, count either ascending or descending, as the case may be.

EXAMPLE.

Treble. Air. Bass.

Octave. Ditto. 6th. 5th. 4th. 3d. 2d. Unison. Octave. Double Oct.

In counting intervals, remember to include both notes or letters—thus in counting a sixth in the above example, D is one, E is two, F is three, G is four, A five, and B six.

In the above example, the notes in the treble and air, are placed in unison with each other. But assigning the treble to female voices, and the air to men's voices, (as is customary,) an octave must be added to the notes in the treble, [as previously observed of a woman's voice being an octave more acute than a man's,] the interval then being the bass and treble—in the first bar, would be a fifteenth or double octave; in the third bar, the note on B in the treble, a thirteenth above D in the bass, &c. Observe that an octave and a second make a ninth; an octave and a third make a tenth; an octave and a fourth make an eleventh; an octave and a fifth, a twelfth; an octave & a sixth, a thirteenth; an octave and a seventh, a fourteenth; two octaves a fifteenth, &c. always including both the first and last note.

When a ledger line is added to a treble stave, a note occupying it is said to be in alt; and when the notes descend below the bass stave, they are termed doubles.

TERMS BY WHICH THE DIFFERENT INTERVALS IN THE GAMUT ARE DENOMINATED.

1. An interval composed of a tone and a semi-tone, as from B to D, is called a minor third.
2. An interval composed of two full tones, as from faw to law, is called a third major.
3. An interval composed of two full tones and a semi-tone, as from mi to law, i. e. from B to E, is called a fourth.
4. An interval composed of three full tones, as from faw to mi, i. e. from F to B, is called a triton or fourth redundant.
5. An interval composed of three tones and a semi-tone, as from faw to sol, i. e. from C. to G, or from G to D, is called a fifth.
6. An interval composed of three tones and two semi-tones, as from law to faw, i. e. from E to C, is called a sixth minor.
7. An interval composed of four tones and a semi-tone, as from faw to law, i. e. from C to A, is called a sixth major.
8. An interval composed of four tones and two semi-tones, as from sol to faw, i. e. from D to C, is called a 7th minor. [See next example.]

9. An interval composed of five tones and a semitone, as from faw to mi, i. e. from C to B, is called a seventh major.

10. An interval composed of five tones and two semi-tones, is called an octave, (as has already been observed.) See examples of the three last mentioned intervals.

The preceding intervals are counted ascending, or upwards, and the sharps (#) indicate the places and number of the semi-tones in each. Note.—The semi-tones always lie between mi and faw, and law and faw.

OF HARMONY.

Having given an explanation of the different intervals contained in the octave, and the manner in which the parts of music are connected, I proceed to show how they may be used in composition to produce harmony.

Harmony consists in the proportion of the distance of two, three, or four sounds, performed at the same time, and mingling in a most pleasing manner to the ear. The notes which produce harmony, when sounded together, are called *concord*s, and their intervals, consonant intervals. The notes which, when sounded together, produce a disagreeable sound to the ear, are called *discord*s, and their intervals, dissonant intervals. There are but four concords in music—viz: unison, third, fifth and sixth; (their eighths or octaves are also meant.) The unison is called a perfect chord, and commonly the fifth is so called; if the composer please, however, he may make the fifth imperfect, when composing more than two parts. The third and sixth are called imperfect, their chords being not so full, nor so agreeable to the ear, as the perfect; but in four parts, the sixth is often used instead of the fifth; so in effect there are but three concords, employed together, in composition.

N. B. The meaning of imperfect, signifies that it wants a semi-tone of its perfections, to what it does when it is perfect: for as the lesser or imperfect third, includes but three half tones, the greater or major third includes four, &c. The discords are a second, a fourth, a seventh, and their octaves; though the greater fourth sometimes comes very near to the sound of an imperfect chord, it being the same in ratio as the minor fifth. Indeed some composers (the writer of these extracts is one of them,) seem very partial to the greater fourth, and frequently admit it in composition. The following is an example of the several concords and discords, and their octaves under them:

Single Chords	CONCORDS.				DISCORDS.
	1	3	5	6	2	4	7
	8	10	12	13	9	11	14
Their Octaves	15	17	19	20	16	18	21
	22	24	26	27	23	25	28

Notwithstanding the 2d, 4th, 7th, 9th, &c. produce properly discords, yet they may sometimes be used to advantage, where more than two parts of the same piece of music are written. I would offer as a bare opinion, the following rule for the admission of dissonant sounds:—Where there are two full chords for one discord, they may be admitted, provided a full chord of all the parts immediately follow; “they will then answer a similar purpose to acid, which being tasted immediately previous to sweet, gives the latter a most pleasing flavor.”

ON THE KEY NOTES IN MUSIC.

In music there are only two natural or primitive keys—one of which is cheerful, and called sharp; the other melancholy, and called flat. C is called the sharp key, and A the flat key. Without the aid of flats and sharps placed at the beginning of staves, which transpose B, (mi), the centre and governing note, and consequently the keys, no tune can rightly be formed on any other than natural keys. Flats and sharps placed at the beginning of staves, produce what are called artificial keys, and bring the same effect, (i. e. place the two semi-tones of the octave the same distance from the key note,) as the two natural keys. The reason why the two natural keys are trans-flats and sharps placed at the beginning of staves, is, to bring them within the staff and within the compass of the voice. The key notes, or places of the keys, are always found in the last note of the bass, of a correct tune; and is either faw, immediately above mi, sharp key—or law immediately below mi, flat key. The reason why one tune is on a sharp lively key, and another on a flat melancholy one, is, that every third, sixth and seventh, ascending from the sharp key, are half a tone higher than the same intervals ascending from the flat key note. [See the example.]

EXAMPLE OF THE KEYS.

In the Major key, from law to faw, its 3d, the interval is two tones, [a Major third]—from faw to law, its 6th, the interval is four tones and a semi-tone, [a Major sixth]—and from faw to mi, its 7th, the interval is five tones and a semi-tone, [a Major seventh.]

In the Minor key, from law to faw, its 3d, the interval is one tone and a semi-tone, [Minor third]—from law to faw, its 6th, the interval is three tones and two semi-tones, [a Minor sixth], and from law to sol, its 7th, the interval is four tones and two semi-tones [a Minor 7th.]

To prove the utility of removing the key, I will produce one example. Let the tune "Suffield" be written on key note A (natural flat key,) instead of E, its proper key—and, besides the inconvenience of multiplying ledger lines, few voices would be able to perform it—the treble in particular.

SUFFIELD—on E, its proper key, from the repeat.

The same on A, the assumed key.

Obs. 1. Care should be taken that all the parts (when singing together) begin upon their proper pitch. If they are too high, difficulty in the performance, and perhaps discords will be the consequence; if too low, dullness and languor. If the parts are not united by their corresponding degrees, the whole piece may be run into confusion and jargon before it ends, and perhaps the whole occasioned by an error in the pitch of one or more parts, of only one semitone.

2. Each one should sing so soft, as not to drown the teacher's voice; and each part so soft, as will permit the other parts to be distinctly heard. If the teacher's voice cannot be heard, it cannot be imitated; and if the singers of any one part are so loud that they cannot hear the other parts because of their own noise, the parts are surely not rightly proportioned, and ought to be altered.

3. The bass should be sounded full and bold; the tenor regular and distinct; the counter clear and plain, and the treble soft and mild, but not faint. The tenor and treble may consider the German flute, the sound of which they may endeavor to imitate if they wish to improve the voice.

4. The high notes, quick notes, and slurred notes, of each part, should be performed softer than the low notes, long notes, and single notes of the same parts.

5. Learners should sing all parts somewhat softer than their leaders do, as it tends to cultivate the voice, and give an opportunity of following in a piece with which they are not well acquainted; but a good voice may be soon much injured by singing too loud.

6. All the notes included by one slur, should be sung at one breath if possible.

7. All notes (except some in syncopation) should be fairly articulated; and in applying the words, great care should be taken that they be properly pronounced, and not turn in pieces between the teeth. Let the mouth be freely opened, the sound come from the lungs,* and not be entirely formed where they should be only distinguished, viz: on the end of the tongue. The superiority of vocal to instrumental music is, that while one only pleases the ear, the other informs the understanding.

8. When notes of the tenor fall below those of the bass in sound, the tenor should be sounded full and strong and the bass soft.

9. There are but few long notes in any tune, but what might be swelled with propriety. The swell is one of the greatest ornaments to vocal music, if rightly performed. All long notes of the bass should be swelled, if the other parts are singing short or quick notes at the same time. The swell should be struck plain upon the first part of the note, increase to the middle and then decrease or die away like the sound of a bell.

The organs of a man's voice (or the lungs) is in form somewhat like a tube, about one fourth of an inch in diameter, and possesses power sufficient to divide a note or tone of music into one hundred equal parts.

10. The common method of beating the two first modes of common time is as follows: for the first beat, bring down the end of the fingers to whatever is used for beating upon; for the second bring down the heel of the hand; for the third, raise the hand a few inches; and for the fourth, raise the hand up nearly as high as the shoulder in readiness for the next measure.

For the triple time mood, let the two first be the same as the two first of common time; and for the third, raise the hand a little higher than for the third beat of common time, when it will be in readiness for the next measure.

For the third and fourth moods of common time, and the two moods of compound time, there is just one motion down and one up for each measure; with this difference, for the common time moods there is no resting for the hand; but in compound time, the resting is double the length of the motion.

11. Learners should beat by a pendulum, or by counting seconds, until they can beat regular time, before they attempt to beat and sing both at once; because it perplexes them to beat, name and time the notes all at once, until they have acquired a knowledge of each by itself.

12. While first learning a tune, it may be sung somewhat slower than the mood of time requires, until the notes can be named, and truly sounded without looking on the book.

13. Some teachers are in the habit of singing too long with their pupils. It is better to sing but six or eight tunes at one time, and inform the learners concerning the nature and disposition of the pieces, and the manner in which they should be performed, and continue at them until they are understood, than to skim over 40 or 50 in one evening, and at the end of a quarter of schooling, perhaps few, besides the teacher, know a flat keyed piece from a sharp keyed one; what part of the anthems, &c. require an emphasis; or how to give the pitch of any tune which they have been learning, unless some person informs them. It is easy to name the notes of the piece, but it requires attention and practice to sing one.

14. Too long singing at one time, injures the lungs.†

15. I have found by experience, that learners will soon know when to sing soft and when strong, if they are led, by the teacher making a larger motion in beating where emphatical words or notes occur, than where others do.

†A cold or cough, all kinds of spirituous liquors, violent exercise, bile upon the stomach, long fasting, the veins overcharged with impure blood, &c. &c. are destructive to the voice of one who is much in the habit of singing. A frequent use of spirituous liquors will speedily ruin the best voice.

A frequent use of some acid drink, such as purified cider, elixir of vitriol with water, vinegar, &c. if used sparingly are strengthening to the lungs.

16. Learners are apt to give the first note, where a fuge begins, nearly double the time it ought to have; sounding a crotchet almost as long as a minim, in any other part of the tune; which puts the parts in confusion, by losing time, whereas the fuges ought to be moved off lively, the time decreasing (or the notes sung quicker) and the sound increasing as the notes fall in.

17. When notes occur one directly above the other (called choosing notes) and there are several singers to the part where they are, let two sing the lower note while one does the upper note, and in the same proportion to any other number.

18. Flat keyed tunes should be sung softer than the sharp keyed ones, and may be proportioned with a lighter bass; but for sharp keyed tunes let the bass be full and strong.

19. Thirds should not be trilled or turned, lest they become seconds or discords, (though some authors do not confine their compositions to these rules) nor fifths and eighths move together, ascending or descending, lest the parts seem but one.

20. In $\frac{233}{424}$ and $\frac{3}{8}$ the second accent is in common very weak, and in quick time scarcely discernable, except in some particular pieces of poetry to which they are applied.

21. Learners should not be confined too long to "the parts that suit their voices best," but should try occasionally the different parts, as it will tend greatly to improve the voice, and give the person a knowledge of the connection of the counter-parts, or of harmony as well as melody.

22. Learners should understand the tune well by note, before they attempt to sing them to verses of poetry.

23. If different verses are applied to a piece of music while learning, it will give the learner a more complete knowledge of the tune, than can be had by confining it always to the same set of words.*

*And likewise applying different tunes to the same words, will have a great tendency to remove the embarrassment created by considering every short tune as a "set piece."

24. Your singers should not join in concert, until each can sing their own part correctly.

25. There should not be any noise indulged while singing (except the music) as it destroys entirely the beauty of harmony, and renders the performance (especially to learners) very difficult; and if it is designedly promoted, is nothing less than a proof of disrespect in the singers to the exercise, to themselves who occasion it, and to the Author of our existence.

26. When the key is transposed, there are flats or sharps placed under each stave: and when the mood of time is changed, the requisite character is placed upon the stave.

27. B, E and A are naturally sharp sounds, and are therefore first flatted, and as F, C and G are naturally flat sounds, they are the first sharped.

28. The appoggiatura is placed in some tunes; it may be used with propriety by a good voice, but neither it nor the trill should be attempted by any one, until they can perform the tune well by plain notes; (as this adds nothing to the time.) Indeed no one can add much to the beauty of a piece by using what are called 'graces' unless they be in a manner natural to their voice.

29. There are other characters sometimes used by some authors, as a shake, a relish, &c. but I have reasons for omitting them in this place.

30. All "affectation" should be banished. It is disgusting in the performance of sacred music, and contrary to that solemnity which should accompany an exercise so near akin to that which will through all eternity engage the attention of those who walk in "climes of bliss."

31. The great Jehovah, who implanted in our nature the noble faculty of vocal performance, is jealous of the use to which we apply our talents in that particular lest we exercise them in a way which does not tend to glorify his name.

Q. On what is music written?

A. On five parallel lines  including the spaces between them, and those immediately above and below them, called a staff, calculated to express the degrees or gradations  of sound.

Q. Are there not a certain number of sounds belonging to every key note in music?

A. Yes, there are seven, which are expressed by the seven first letters of the alphabet, A, B, C, D, E, F, G.

Q. How many parts belong to vocal music?

A. Four: Treble, Counter, Tenor and Bass.

Q. How are the seven musical letters placed on the Bass staff?

A. Thus:

B		space above
A	_____	fifth line
G	_____	fourth space
F		fourth line
E		third space
D	_____	third line
C	_____	second space
B	_____	second line
A	_____	first space
G	_____	first line

Q. How are they placed on the tenor and treble staff?

A. Thus:

G		space above
F	_____	fifth line
E	_____	fourth space
D	_____	fourth line
C	_____	third space
B	_____	third line
A		second space
G		second line
F		first space
E	_____	first line

Q. How are they on the counter staff?

A. Thus:

A		space above
G	_____	fifth line
F	_____	fourth space
E	_____	fourth line
D		third space
C		third line
B		second space
A	_____	second line
G	_____	first space
F	_____	first line

Q. What have you observed respecting this order of the letters on the staves for all the parts generally?

A. That the order of the letters is the same, though different on the same lines and spaces; for whenever, for instance, G is found A is next, B next, and so on till the whole seven letters occur, and then on the eighth place the same letter occurs again. This eighth place is called an octave, and is considered a unison, or the same sound with the first—so that we may conclude that the whole of music is comprised in seven sounds.

Q. What are cliffs?

A. They are musical characters placed at the beginning of every staff and determine the order of the musical letters on that staff, and generally the part of music written thereon.

Q. Explain then the several cliffs.

A. 1. This character  called the F cliff, on the fourth line, has heretofore been used only in bass, but is  of late often used for the counter, for the purpose of bringing the music in  the staff.

2. This character  is called the G cliff, is always used in the tenor and Treble, and in modern music, often in the Counter.

*As this volume is designed principally for a book of instruction, to be used in schools, the following rules thrown into catechetical order, are intended for mere beginners in music,—the more advanced scholar will find the preceding introduction as still more worthy his study and attention. The compiler here acknowledges himself indebted to Mr. "Wyeth's Repository, part second" for many of the rules and remarks contained in this introduction

3. This character  is called the C cliff, and only used in the counter.

Q. By what names or syllables are the seven sounds in music articulated?

A. By those four names—mi, fa, sol, la.

Q. How do you know by which of the names any note is to be called?

A. By first finding where mi, the centre, or governing name is to be found; when that is done, the places, including both lines and spaces, above that of the mi, are fa, sol, la, fa, sol, la, (six places) then comes mi, and consequently the same musical letter again; and below the place of mi, descending are la, sol, fa, la, sol, fa, (six places) then mi, and the same musical letter again.

Q. As it appears then, that mi is the governing name, and determines the names of all the others, pray tell me how you find the place of mi in any tune?

A. The natural place for mi, in all parts of music, is on that line or space, represented by B, but

If B is  mi is on	- - - F	If F is  mi is on	- - - F
If B and E is  mi is on	- - - A	If F and C is  mi is on	- - - C
If B, E and A is  mi is on	- - - D	If F, C and G is  mi is on	- - - G
If B, E, A and D is  mi is on	- - - G	If F, C, G and D is  mi is on	- - - D

Q. But in modern written or printed music books, is there not an easier method of mi, fa, sol, la, than the one just mentioned?

A. There is: for music is now so written, that the name of each note, is known by its shape—thus, a note when it is mi, is a diamond , when fa, a triangle , when sol, a round , and when la, a square  shape: see the

EXAMPLE.

Q. How many are the musical notes, and what are their names?

A. There are six, viz. the Semibreve, Minim, Crotchet, Quaver, Semiquaver and Demisemiquaver.

The following scale will show, at one view, the proportion one note bears to another

One Semibreve

is equal in time to

Quavers,

Sixteen

Semiquavers.

Thirty-two

Demisemiquavers.

Q. Explain the above scale.

A. The semibreve  is now the longest note used; it is white, without a stem, and is the measure note,  and guideth all the others.

The Minim  is but half the length of the semibreve and has a stem to it.

The Crotchet  is but half the length of the minim, and has a black head and straight stem.

The Quaver  is but half the length of the crotchet, has a black head, and one turn to the stem, sometimes one way, and sometimes another.

The Semiquaver  is but half the length of the quaver. has also a black head and two turns to the stem, which are likewise various.

The Demisemiquaver  is half the length of a semiquaver, has a black head, and three turns to its stem, also variously turned.

Q. What are rests?

A. All rests are marks of silence, which signify that you must keep silent so long a time as takes to sound the notes they represent, except the semibreve rest, which is called the bar rest, always filling the bar, let the mood of time be what it may.

THE RESTS.

Semibreve. Minim. Crotchet. Quaver. Semiquaver. Demisemiquaver.

Q. Explain the rests?

A. The Semibreve or Bar rest is a black square underneath the third line.

The Minim rest is the same mark above the third line.

The Crotchet rest is something like an inverted figure of seven.

The Semiquaver rest resembles the figure seven with an additional mark to the left.

The Demisemiquaver rest is like the last described, with a third mark to the left.

The two bar rest is a strong bar reaching only across the third space.

The four bar rest is a strong bar crossing the second and third space and third line.

The eight Bar rest is two strong bars like the last described.

Q. Have the notes and rests always the same time?

A. No: Their time varies according to the several modes of time hereafter explained, yet they always bear the same proportion one to another.

Q. Are there not some marks which alter the length of the notes?

A. Yes, the dot  called point of addition, at the right hand of any note, makes it one half longer. See the example.

Also the figure three, over or under any three notes of the same kind, shows that they must be sung in the time of two without a figure.

Likewise a hold  over a note shows that it may be held one fourth longer than usual.

Q. What is a ledger line?

A. A ledger line is added when notes ascend or descend a line beyond the stave.

Q. What is a slur and its use?

A. A slur  over or under a number of notes, or, if made Quavers, Semiquavers, &c. by joining their stems together, shows they are to be sung to one syllable.

Q. Explain the repeat.

A. The repeat  or :S: shows that the music is to be sung twice from  it to the next double bar or close.

Q. Explain the use of figures 1, 2.

A. The figures 1, 2 at the end of a strain that is repeated, shows that the note or notes under 1, are to be sung before the repeat, and those under 2, after, omitting those under 1; but if tied with a slur, both are to be sounded at the repetition.

Q. What are meant by notes of Appoggiature?

A. Small notes added to the regular notes, to guide the voice more easily and gracefully into the sound of the succeeding notes—these small notes are not to be named.

Q. Explain the use of the single bar.

A. The single bar divides the time into equal parts according to the measure note.

Q. Explain the use of the double bar.

A. The double bar shows the end of a strain.

Q. The close.

A. The close shows the end of a tune.

Q. What is meant by syncopation notes?

A. Syncopation notes are those which are driven out of their proper order in the bar, or driven through it, and requires the beat to be performed while such notes are sounding. One or two examples follow, which, with the help of the skilful teacher, will soon be understood by singers of tolerable capacities.

The learner may sing the notes as they stand in the following stave:

THE TIME.

Q. How many moods of time are there in music?

A. Nine: four of Common, three of Triple, and two of Compound.

Q. Explain the four MOODS OF COMMON TIME.

A. The first mood is known by a plain C, and has a semibreve or its quantity in a measure, sung in the time of four seconds—four beats in a bar, two down and two up.

The second mood is known by a C with a bar through it, has the same measure, sung in the time of three seconds—four beats in a bar, two down and two up.

The third mood is known by a C inverted, sometimes with a bar through it, has the same measure as the two first, sung in the time of two seconds—two beats in a bar.

The fourth mood is known by a figure 2 over a figure 4, has a minim for a measure note, sung in the time of one second—two beats in a bar, one down and the other up.

Q. Explain the MOODS OF TRIPLE TIME.

A. The first mood of triple time is known by a figure 3 over a figure 2, has a pointed semibreve or three minims in a measure, sung in the time of three seconds—three beats, two down and one up.

The second mood is known by a figure 3 over a 4, has a pointed minim or three crotchets in a measure, and sung in two seconds—three beats in a bar, two down and one up.

The third mood is known by the figure 3 above figure 8, has three quavers in a measure, and sung in the time of one second—three beats in a bar, two down and one up.

Q. Explain the two MOODS OF COMMON TIME.

A. The first mood of compound time is known by the figure 6 above figure 4, has six crotchets in a measure, sung in the time of two seconds—two beats in a bar, one down and one up.

The second mood of compound time is known by the figure 6 above figure 8, has six quavers in a measure, sung in the time of one second—two beats in a bar, one down and one up.

Q. What do the figures over the bar, and the letters d and u under it, in the above examples of time, mean?

A. The figures show how many beats there are in each bar; and the letter d shows when the hand must go down, and the u when up.

Q. What general rule is there for beating time?

A. That the hand fall at the beginning, and rise at the end of each bar, in all moods of time.

Q. Do you suppose those moods when expressed by figures have any particular signification, more than being mere arbitrary characters?

A. I think they have this significant meaning, that the lower figure shows how many parts or kinds of notes the semibreve is divided into, and the upper figure signifies how many of such notes or parts will fill a bar—for example, the first mood of compound time (6 above 4,) shows the semibreve is divided into four parts—i. e. into crotchets, (for four crotchets are equal to one semibreve); and the upper figure 6 shows that 6 of these parts, viz. crotchets, fill a bar. So of any other time expressed by figures.

Q. How shall we with sufficient exactness ascertain the proper time of each beat in the different moods?

A. By making use of a pendulum, the cord of which, from the centre of the ball to the pin from which it is suspended, to be, for the several moods, of the following lengths:—

For the first and third Moods of Common Time, the first of Triple and first of Compound, [all requiring second beats,]	39 2-10 inches.
For the second Mood of Common, second of Triple, and first of Compound,	22 1-10
For the fourth of Common,	12 4-10
For the third of Triple time,	5 1-21

Then for every swing or vibration of the ball, count one beat, accompanying the motion with the hand, till something of a habit is formed, for the several moods of time, according to the different lengths of the cord, as expressed above.

NOTE.—If teachers would fall upon this or some other method, for ascertaining and keeping the true time, there would not be so much difficulty among singers, taught at different schools, about timing music together; for it matters not how well individual singers may perform, if, when several of them perform together, they do not keep time well, they disgust, instead of pleasing their hearers.

Q. What is the use of a brace?

A. The brace links so many staves together as there are parts of the same tune written together.

Q. What are choosing notes?

A. Notes set immediately one over another on the same staff, either of which may be sung, but not both by the same voice. But where there are two or more singers, and choosing notes occur, some may take the upper, and others the lower notes, which increases the variety.

OF THE KEYS.

Q. What is meant by the keys in music, how many are there, and how are they known?

A. The key note of every correct piece of music is the leading note of the tune, by which all the other sounds throughout the tune are compared, and may always be found in the last bar of the bass, and generally of the tenor. If the last note in the bass be la, immediately above mi, the tune is on a flat or minor key; but if it be fa immediately above mi, it is a sharp or major key.

There are but two natural places for the keys—A and C. A is the place of the minor, and C the place of the major key. Without the aid of flats and sharps at the beginning of the staff, no tune can rightly be set to any other than these two natural keys; but by the help of these, mi, the centre note, and of course the keys, are removed at pleasure, and form what are called artificial keys, producing the same effect as the two natural ones, i. e. by fixing the two semi-tones equally distant from the key notes. The difference between the major and minor keys is as follows: The major key note has its 3d, 6th, and 7th intervals, ascending, half a tone higher than the same intervals ascending from the minor key note. This is the reason why music set to the major key is generally sprightly and cheerful, whereas that set to the minor key is pensive and melancholy.

NOTE.—It is of the utmost importance that new beginners in music be taught the difference of the intervals when started from both keys, and this must be done by practice and imitation, for mere directions will not do.

My own love

PART I.

CONTAINING ALL THE PLAIN AND EASY TUNES
COMMONLY USED IN TIME OF DIVINE WORSHIP.

PRIMROSE. C. M.

Salvation, oh! the joyful sound, 'Tis pleasure to our ears; A sovereign balm for ev'ry wound, A cordial for our fears.

Ye nations round the earth rejoice Before the Lord, your sovereign king; Serve him with cheerful heart and voice, With all your tongues his glory sing.

ROCKBRIDGE. L. M.

Sweet is the work, my God my King, To praise thy name give thanks and sing; To show thy love by morning light, And talk of all thy truths at night.

Come children, learn to fear the Lord, And that your days be long, Let not a false nor spiteful word Be found upon your tongue.

LENOX. P. M.

Blow ye the trumpet, blow
The gladly solemn sound

Let all the nations know,
To earth's remotest bound.

The year of Jubilee is come, Return ye ransomed sinners home.

In God's own house pronounce his praise, His grace he there reveals; To heav'n your joy and wonder raise, For there his glory dwells.

OLD HUNDRED. L. M.

O Come, loud anthems let us sing, Loud thanks to our Almighty King, For we our voices high should raise, When our salvation's rock we praise.

Look from on high, great God, and see, Thy saints lamenting after thee; We sigh, we languish and complain, Revive thy gracious work again

CONSOLATION. C. M.

Once more my soul the rising day Salutes thy waking eyes; Once more my voice thy tribute pay, To him that rules the skies.

Broad is the road that leads to death, And thousands walk together there; But wisdom shows a narrow path, With here and there a traveller.

SUPPLICATION. L. M.

Show pity Lord, O Lord forgive, Let a repent- ing rebel live; Are not thy mercies large and free? May not a sinner trust in thee.

Lord what is man, poor feeble man, Born of the earth at first; His life a shadow, light and vain, Still hast'ning to the dust.

AYLESBURY S. M.

The Lord my shepherd is, I shall be well supply'd; Since he is mine, and I am his, What can I want beside.

Why do we mourn departing friends? Or shake at death's alarms?
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends To call them to his arms.

Are we not tending upwards too, As fast as time can move?
Nor should we wish the hours more slow, To keep us from our love.

GEORGIA. C. M.

slow, To keep us

Return, O God of love return, Earth is a tiresome place, How long shall we, thy children, mourn Our absence from thy face.

Come humble sinner, in whose breast a thousand thoughts revolve,
Come, with your guilt and fear oppress, And make this last resolve;

I'll go to Jesus, though my sin Hath like a mountain rose;
I know his courts, I'll enter in, Whatever may oppose.

HIDING PLACE. L. M.

Hail sov'reign love, that first began The scheme to rescue fallen man; Hail matchless, free, eternal grace, That gave my soul a hiding place.

Teach me the measure of my days, Thou maker of my frame, I would survey life's narrow space, And learn how frail I am.

'TENDER THOUGHT'. L. M.

Arise my tender thoughts arise, To torrents melt my streaming eyes; And thou my heart, with anguish feel Those evils which thou canst not Leal.

With cheerful notes let all the earth, To heav'n their voices raise, Let all inspir'd with Godly mirth, Sing solemn hymns of praise.

This musical score is for the hymn 'ST. MARTINS. C. M.' and consists of four staves. The first two staves are for the vocal parts, and the last two are for the piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/2. The lyrics are written below the vocal staves, with some words grouped by slurs. The piano part features a variety of note values, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests.

NINETY-THIRD. S. M.

My Saviour and my King, Thy beauties are divine; Thy lips with blessings overflow, And ev'ry grace is thine.

This musical score is for the hymn 'NINETY-THIRD. S. M.' and consists of four staves. The first two staves are for the vocal parts, and the last two are for the piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/2. The lyrics are written below the vocal staves, with some words grouped by slurs. There are some handwritten annotations in the score, such as '3' and '4' above certain notes in the piano part.

Death, what a solemn word to all! What mortal things are men! We just arise, and soon we fall, To mix with earth again.

CHINA. C. M.

Why do we mourn departing friends, Or shake at death's alarms? 'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends, To call them to his arms.

Hark, it is wisdom's voice, That spreads itself around; Come hither all ye sons of death, And listen to the wind.

OLNEY. 8s and 7s.

Come thou fount of ev'ry blessing, Streams of mercy never ceasing, Teach me some melodious sonnet, [above.
Tune my heart to sing thy grace: Call for songs of loudest praise. Sung by flaming tongues

Praise the mount, O fix me on it, Mount of thy unchanging love.

Sweet is the day of sacred rest, No mortal cares shall seize my breast.

O may my heart in tune be found, Like David's harp of solemn sound.

SOLICITUDE. 11s.

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord,

What more can he say, than to you he hath said,

Is laid for your faith in his excellent word,

You who unto Jesus for refuge have fled.

O thou in whose presence my soul takes delight, On whom in affliction I call, My comfort by day, and my song in the night, My hope, my salvation, my all.

2 Where dost thou at noon-tide resort with thy sheep,
To feed on the pasture of love;
For why in the valley of death should I weep,
Alone in the wilderness rove.

3 O why should I wander an alien from thee,
Or cry in the desert for bread?
My foes would rejoice when my sorrows they see,
And smile at the tears I have shed.

4 Ye daughters of Zion, declare have you seen
The star that on Israel shone;
Say if in your tents my beloved hath been,
And where with his flock he hath gone.

5 This is my beloved, his form is divine,
His vestments shed odours around;
The locks on his head are as grapes on the vine,
When autumn with plenty is crown'd;

6 The roses of Sharon, the lillies that grow
In vales on the banks of the streams;
His cheeks in the beauty of excellence blow,
His eye all invitingly beams.

7 His voice, as the sound of a dulcimer sweet,
Is heard through the shadow of death,
The cedars of Lebanon bow at his feet,
The air is perfumed with his breath.

8 His lips as a fountain of righteousness flow,
That waters the garden of grace,
From which their salvation the gentiles shall know,
And bask in the smiles of his face.

9 Love sits on his eyelids and scatters delight,
Through all the bright mansions on high;
Their faces the cherubim veil in his sight,
And tremble with fulness of joy.

10 He looks, and ten thousands of angels rejoice,
And myriads wait for his word,
He speaks, and eternity, fill'd with his voice,
Re-echo's the praise of her Lord.

On Jordan's stormy banks I stand, And cast a wishful eye, } O the transporting, rapt'rous scene, Sweet fields array'd in living green,
 To Canaan's fair and happy land, Where my possessions lie, } That raises to my sight. And rivers of delight.

CONQUERING SOLDIER. P. M.

O when shall I see Jesus, And reign with him above, When shall I be deliv'd from this vain world of sin, And with my blessed Jesus,
 And drink the flowing fountain Of everlasting love. Drink endless pleasure in.

How does my heart rejoice To hear the public voice, Yes with a cheerful zeal We'll haste to Zion's hill.
 "Come, let us seek our God to-day!" And there our vows and honors pay.

GREENFIELDS. 8's.

How tedious and tasteless the hours, When Jesus no longer I see; Sweet prospects, sweet birds, and sweet flow'rs Have all lost their sweetness to me.
 The midsummer sun shines but dim, The fields strive in vain to look gay; But when I am happy in Him, December's as pleasant as May.

Dear sov'reign whirl these seasons round, And bring :||: the promis'd day.

While beauty and youth are in their full prime, And folly and fashion affect our whole time; O let not the phantom our wishes engage,
Let us live so in youth that we blush not in age.

- 2 The vain and the young may attend us awhile,
But let not their flattery our prudence beguile;
Let us covet those charms that shall never decay,
Nor listen to all that deceivers can say.
- 3 I sigh not for beauty nor languish for wealth,
But grant me kind Providence, virtue and health;
Then richer than kings and far happier than they,
My days shall pass swiftly and sweetly away.
- 4 For when age steals on me, and youth is no more,
And the moralist time shakes his glass at my door;

- What pleasure in beauty or wealth can I find,
My beauty, my wealth, is a sweet peace of mind.
- 5 That peace I'll preserve it as pure as 'twas giv'n,
Shall last in my bosom an earnest of heav'n;
For virtue and wisdom can warm the cold scene,
And sixty can flourish as gay as sixteen.
- 6 And when I the burden of life shall have borne,
And death with his sickle shall cut the ripe corn,
Re-ascend to my God without murmur or sigh,
I'll bless the kind summons and lie down and die.

Glorious things of thee are spoken,

SICILIAN MARINER'S HYMN. L. M.

Moderato.

O turn, great ruler of the skies!

Turn from my sins thy searching eyes!

My mind from ev'ry fear release, And soothe my troubled thoughts to rest.

Thy mercy my God is the theme of my song,
The joy of my heart and the boast of my tongue;

Thy free grace alone from the first to the last,

Hath won my affection and bound my soul fast.

CAPTAIN KID. 6, 6, 6, 3, 6, 6, 6, 6, 3.

Thro' all the world below,
God is seen all around,

There he's found.

The growing of the corn,

The lilly and the thorn,

The pleasant and forlorn,

All declare God is there,

There he's seen.

Search hills and valleys through.

Awak'd by Sinai's awful sound, My soul in guilt and thrall I found, O'erwhelm'd in sin, with anguish slain, The sinner must be born again,

And knew not where to go. Or sink in endless woe.

2 Amaz'd I stood, but could not tell,
Which way to shun the gates of hell,
For death and hell drew near;
I strove indeed, but strove in vain,
The sinner must be born again,
Still sounded in my ear.

3 When to the law I trembling fled,
It pour'd its curses on my head,
I no relief could find;
This fearful truth increas'd my pain,
The sinner must be born again,
O'erwhelm'd my tortur'd mind.

4 Again did Sinai's thunder roll,
And guilt lay heavy on my soul,
A vast unwieldy load;
Alas, I read and saw it plain,
The sinner must be born again,
Or drink the wrath of God.

5 The saints I heard with rapture tell,
How Jesus conquer'd death and hell,
And broke the fowler's snare;
Yet when I found this truth remain,
The sinner must be born again,
I sunk in deep despair.

6 But while I thus in anguish lay,
Jesus of Nazareth pass'd that way,
And felt his pity move;
The sinner by his justice slain,
Now by his grace is born again,
And sings redeeming love.

7 To heav'n the joyful tidings flew,
The angels tun'd their harps anew,
And lofty notes did raise;
All hail the lamb that once was slain,
Unnumber'd millions born again,
Still shout thy endless praise.

And let this feeble body fail, And let it faint or die, My soul shall quit this mournful vale, And soar to worlds on high. And soar to worlds on high. And soar, &c. My soul shall quit, &c.

THE LEPEROUS JEW.

Behold the lep'rous Jew, Oppress'd with pain and grief, Pouring his tears at Jesus' feet, For pity and relief. For pity, &c.

O speak the word he cries,
Compassion moves his heart,
To thee, dear Lord, I look,
But thy Almighty grace,

And heal me of my pain;
He speaks the gracious word:
Sick of a worse disease;
Can heal my lep'rous soul;

Lord, thou art able, if thou wilt,
The leper feels his strength return,
Sin is my painful malady,
O bathe me in thy precious blood.

To make a leper clean.
And all his sickness cur'd.
And none can give me ease.
And that will make me whole.

BOURBON. L. M.

'Twas on that dark, that doleful night, When pow'rs of earth and hell arose Against the son of God's delight, And friends betray'd him to his foes.

Before the mournful scene began, He took the bread and bless'd and brake; What love through all his actions ran! What wondrous words of grace he spake.

Slow.

Praise to the Lord of boundless might, With uncreat- ed glories bright; His presence fills the world above, Th^r eternal source of light and love.

PLEYEL'S HYMN. L. M.

Very Slow.

So fades the lovely blooming flow'r, Frail smiling solace of an hour, So soon our transient comforts fly, And pleasure only blooms to die.

BRIDGEWATER L. M.

From all who dwell below the skies, Let the creator's praise arise; Let the Redeemer's name be sung Thro' ev'ry land by ev'ry tongue, Thro' ev'ry, &c.

WORTHINGTON. C. M.

What dying worms, what dying, &c.

Thou we adore eternal name, How feeble is our mortal frame, What dying worms are we,
And humbly own to thee; How feeble is our mortal frame,

This spacious earth is all the Lord's, And men, and worms, and beasts, and birds: He rais'd the buildings on the seas, And gave it for their dwelling place.

KINGSTON. 8s and 7s.

Agonizing in the garden, Lo your maker prostrate lies!
On the bloody tree behold him, Hear him cry before he dies. It is finish'd! It is finish'd Sinners will not this suffice.

How long, dear Saviour, O how long shall this bright hour delay! Fly swifter round ye wheels of time, And bring the welcome day.

FUNERAL THOUGHT, C. M.

Hark! from the tombs a doleful sound, Mine ears attend the cry: "Ye living men come view the ground Where you must shortly lie."

O thou in whose presence my soul takes delight, On whom in affliction I call, My comfort by day, and my song in the night, My hope, my salvation, my all.

WORSHIP, or EVENING HYMN. L. M.

Sleep, downy sleep, come close my eyes, Tir'd with beholding vanities;

Welcome, sweet sleep, that driv'st away The toils and follies of the day.

MANSFIELD. S. M.

Let ev'ry creature join to praise th' Eternal God; Ye heav'nly hosts the song begin, And sound his name abroad. Ye heav'nly, &c.

- Come sound his praise abroad, And hymns of glory sing; Jeho- vah is the sov'reign Lord, The uni- versal king.

YORK. C. M.

Happy the heart where graces reign, Where love inspires the breast; Love is the brightest of the train, And strengthens all the rest.

BATH. L. M.

Life is the time to serve the Lord, The time t' insure the great reward; And while the lamp holds out to burn, The vilest sinner may return.

QUERCY. L. M.

With all my pow'rs of heart and tongue, I'll praise my maker in my song; Angels shall hear the notes I raise, Approve the song, and join the praise.

Je- sus, with all thy saints above, My tongue would bear her part, Would sound aloud thy saving love, And sing thy bleeding heart.

LONDON-NEW. C. M.

Let ev'ry tongue thy goodness speak, Thou sov'reign Lord of all; Thy strength'ning hands uphold the weak, And raise the poor that fall.

I hear the thirsty cry, The hungry beg for bread, Then let my spring its stream supply, My hand its bounty shed. My land, &c.

HEAVENLY SPARK. P. M.

Come on my partners in distress, My comrades thro' the wilderness, Awhile forget your griefs and fears, And look beyond this vale of tears,
Who still your bodies fill; To that celestial hill.

HALLELUJAH. 8's and 7's.

Come thou fount of ev'ry blessing, Tune my heart to sing thy grace, Teach me some melodious sonnet, Sung by flaming tongues above,
Streams of mercy never ceasing, Call for songs of highest praise. Praise the mount, O fix me on it, Mount of God's unchanging love.

Where nothing dwelt but beasts of prey, Or men as fierce and wild as they, He bids th' oppress'd and poor repair, And build them towns and cities there.

They sow the fields, and trees they plant, Whose yearly fruit supplies their want; Their race grows up from fruitful stocks, Their wealth increases with their flocks.

Hither ye faithful haste with songs of triumph, To Bethlehem haste the Lord of life to meet; To you this day is born a Prince and Saviour; O come and let us worship, O come and let us worship, O come and let us worship at his feet.

O Jesus, for such won'drous condescension,
Our praises and rev'rence are an offering meet;
Now is the word made flesh, and dwells among us;
O come and let us worship at his feet.

Shout his Almighty name ye choirs of angels,
And let the celestial courts his praise repeat;
Unto our God be glory in the highest.
O come and let us worship at his feet.

How tedious and tasteless the hours, Since Jesus no longer I see, Sweet prospects, sweet birds and sweet flow'rs, Have all lost their sweetness to me; The mid summer sunshines but dim, The fields strive in vain to look gay, But when I am happy in Him, December's as pleasant as May.

2 His name yields the richest perfume,
And sweeter than music his voice;
His presence disperses my gloom,
And makes all within me rejoice.
I should, were he always thus nigh,
Have nothing to wish or to fear—
No mortal so happy as I,
My summer would last all the year.

3 Content with beholding his face,
My all to his pleasure resigned,
No changes of season or place,
Would make any change in my mind:
While blessed with a sense of his love,
A palace a toy would appear,
And prisons would palaces prove,
If Jesus would dwell with me there.

4 Dear Lord, if indeed I am thine,
If thou art my sun and my song,
Say, why do I languish and pine?
And why are my winters so long?
O drive these dark clouds from my sky,
Thy soul cheering presence restore;
Or take me to thee upon high,
Where winter and clouds are no more.

From war's dread confusion I pensively stray'd, The winds hush'd their murmurs, the thunders expir'd

Corydon's notes are all o'er, Now lonely he sleeps in the clay, His cheeks bloom with roses no more, Since death call'd his spirit away.

Sweet woodbines will rise round his feet,
And willows their sorrowing wave;
Young hyacinths freshen and bloom,
While hawthorns encircle his grave.
Each morn when the sun gilds the east,
(The green grass bespangled with dew,)
He'll cast his bright beams on the west,
To charm the sad Caroline's view.

3. O Corydon! hear the sad cries
Of Caroline, plaintive and slow;
O spirit! look down from the skies,
And pity thy mourner below.
'Tis Caroline's voice in the grove,
Which Philomel hears on the plain,
Then striving the mourner to soothe,
With sympathy joins in her strain.

4. Ye shepherds so blithesome and young,
Retire from your sports on the green,
Since Corydon's deaf to my song,
The wolves tear the lambs on the plain;
Each swain round the forest will stray,
And sorrowing hang down his head,
His pipe then in symphony play
Some dirge to sweet Corydon's shade.

5. And when the still night has unfurl'd
Her robes o'er the hamlet around,
Gray twilight retires from the world,
And darkness encumbers the ground.
I'll leave my own gloomy abode,
To Corydon's urn will I fly,
There kneeling will bless the just God
Who dwells in bright mansions on high.

6 Since Corydon hears me no more, In gloom let the woodlands appear, Ye oceans be still of your roar, Let Autumn extend around the year;
I'll hie me through meadow and lawn, There cull the bright flow'rets of May, Then rise on the wings of the morn, And waft my young spirit away.

Mine eyes are now closing to rest, My body must soon be remov'd, And mould'ring lie buried in dust, No more to be envied or lov'd. No more to be envied or lov'd. Ah! what is this drawing my breath, And stealing my senses away.

My soul forsakes her vain delight And bids the world farewell, Base as the dirt beneath thy feet And mischievous as hell. No longer will I ask your love, Nor seek your friendship more: The happiness that I approve, is not within your pow'r.

Sons of Adam, once in Eden, When like us ye blighted fell, Hear the lecture we are reading, 'Tis alas the truth we tell.

This spacious earth is all the Lord's, And men and worms, and beasts and birds; He raised the building on the seas, And gave it for their dwelling place.

But there's a brighter world on high, Thy palace, Lord, above the sky, Who shall ascend that blest abode, And dwell so near his Maker, God.

Stoop down my thoughts that used to rise, Converse a while with death; Think how a gasping mortal lies, And pants away his breath.

Think how a gasping, &c.

DISMISSION. L. M.

I cannot bear thine absence Lord, My life expires if thou depart; Be thou, my heart, still near my God, And thou, my God, be near my heart.

1 O Jesu my Saviour I know thou art mine,
For thee all the pleasures of sin I resign;
Of objects most pleasing, I love thee the best,
Without thee I'm wretched, but with thee I'm blest.

2 Thy spirit first taught me to know I was blind,
Then taught me the way of salvation to find;
And when I was sinking in gloomy despair,
Thy mercy reliev'd me, and bid me not fear.

3 In vain I attempt to describe what I feel,
The language of mortals or angels would fail.
My Jesus is precious, my soul's in a flame,
I'm raised to a rapture while praising his name.

4 I find him in singing, I find him in pray'r
In sweet meditation he always is near,
My constant companion, O may we ne'er part,
All glory to Jesus he dwells in my heart.

5 I love thee my Saviour, &c.

6 My Jesus is precious—I cannot forbear,
Though sinners despise me, his love to declare;
His love overwhelms me, had I wings I'd fly
To praise him in mansions prepar'd in the sky

7 Then millions of ages my soul would employ,
In praising my Jesus, my love and my joy,
Without interruption, when all the glad throng
With pleasures unceasing unite in the song.

- 2 We have a howling wilderness, To Canaan's happy shore, A land of dearth and pits and snares, Where chilling winds do roar.
But Jesus will be with us, And guard us by the way; Though enemies examine us, He'll teach us what to say.
- 3 The pleasant fields of paradise, So glorious to behold, The vallies clad in living green, The mountains paved with gold;
The trees of life with heav'nly fruit, Behold how rich they stand! Blow gentle gales, and bear my soul Away to Canaan's happy land.
- 4 Sweet rivers of salvation all Through Canaan's land do roll, The beams of day bring glitt'ring scenes, Illuminate my soul;
There's pond'rous clouds of glory, All set in diamonds bright; And there's my smiling Jesus, Who is my heart's delight.
- 5 Already to my raptur'd sight, The blissful fields arise, And plenty spreads her smiling stores Inviting to my eyes.
O sweet abode of endless rest, I soon shall travel there, Nor earth, nor all her empty joys, Shall long detain me here.
- 6 Come all you pilgrim travellers, Fresh courage take by me; Meantime I'll tell you how I came This happy land to see;
Through faith, the glorious telescope, I view'd the worlds above, And God the Father reconcil'd, Which fills my heart with love.

Through ev'ry age eternal God, Thou art our rest, our safe abode; High was thy throne ere heav'n was made, Or earth thy humble footstool laid.

- 2 Long hast thou reign'd ere time began, Or dust was fashion'd into man; And long thy kingdom shall endure, When earth and time shall be no more.
 3 But man, weak man, is born to die, Made up of guilt and vanity: Thy dreadful sentence, Lord, was just, "Return ye sinners to your dust."
 4 Death, like an overflowing stream, Sweeps us away; Our life's a dream, An empty tale—a morning show'r; Cut down and wither'd in an hour.
 5 Teach us, O Lord, how frail is man, And kindly lengthen out his span, Till a wise career of piety Fit us to die and dwell with Thee.

LEGACY. 8 & 10.

When in death I shall calm recline,
Tell her it liv'd on smiles and wine

O bear my heart to my mistress dear,
Of brightest hue while it linger'd here.

Bid her not shed one tear of sorrow To sully a heart so brilliant and light; But balmy drops of the red grape borrow To bathe the relict from morn till night.

- 2 The place it is hidden, the place it is seal'd,
The place it is hidden till it is reveal'd;
The place is in Jesus, to Jesus we'll go,
And there find redemption from sorrow and wo.
- 3 That place it is hidden by reason of sin;
Alas! you can't see the sad state you are in;
You're blind and polluted, in prison and pain,
O how can such rebels redemption obtain!
- 4 But if you are wounded and bruised by the fall,
Then up and be doing, for you he doth call;
And if you are tempted to doubt and despair,
Then come home to Jesus, redemption is there.
- 5 And you, my dear brethren, that love my dear Lord,
Have witness for pardon, through faith in his blood,
Let patience attend you wherever you go,
Your Saviour has purchas'd redemption for you.

I'm tir'd of visits, modes and forms, And flatt'ries paid to fellow worms; Their conversation cloy, Their vain amours and empty stuff, But I can ne'er enjoy enough Of thy best company my Lord, Thou life of all my joys.

Bright scenes of glory strike my sense, And all my passions captiv'd, | I live in pleasures deep and full, In swelling waves of glory; And feel my Saviour in my soul,
Eternal beauties round me shine, Infusing warmest rapture; | And groan to tell my story. And feel my Saviour, &c.

2 I feast on honey, milk and wine,
-I drink perpetual sweetness;
Mount Zion's odours through me shine,
While Christ unfolds his glory.
No mortal tongue can show my joys,
Nor can an'angel tell them,
Ten thousand times surpassing all
Terrestrial worlds or emblems.

3 My captivated spirit flies
Through shining worlds of beauty;
Dissolv'd in blushes, loud I cry
In praises loud and mighty;
And here I'll sing and swell the strains
Of harmony delighted,
And with the millions learn the notes
Of saints and Christ united.

4 The bliss that rolls through heav'n above,
Through those in glory seated,
Which causes them loud songs to sing,
Ten thousand times repeated;
Goes through my soul in radiant flames,
Constraining loudest praises,
O'erwhelming all my pow'rs with joys,
While all within me blazes.

5 When earth and seas shall be no more,
And all their glory perish,
When sun and moon shall cease to shine,
And stars at midnight languish,
My joys refin'd shall higher shine,
Mount heav'n's radiant glory,
And tell through one eternal day,
Love's all immortal story.

The Lamb appears to wipe our tears, And to complete our glory, Then shall we rest with all the blest, And tell the lovely story. To sit and tell Christ lov'd us well, And that when we were sinners; Heaven will ring, while saints do sing, "Glory to the Redeem-er." 1 2

The lyrics are clearly aligned with the notes of the vocal staff.

He said, and hasten'd to his home, To seek his father's love: The father saw the rebel come, And all his bowels move.

He ran and fell upon his neck, Embrac'd and kiss'd his son; The rebel's heart with sorrow brake For follies he had done.

Take off these clothes of shame and sin, The father gives command; Dress him in garments white and clean, With rings adorn his hand. A day of feasting I or-dain; A day of feasting I ordain, Let mirth and joy abound, :: My son was dead and lives again, Was lost and now is found Was lost

Our Lord is risen from the dead, Our Je- sus has gone up on high: The pow'rs of hell are captive led,

Dragg'd to the portals of the sky. The pow'rs, &c. Dragg'd, &c. Dragg'd! &c.
